

TOP 5 LOOKS FROM MONTREAL FASHION WEEK

By Sarah Monaco September 09, 2013

Anyone who has visited Montreal is familiar with its fearless, no-holds-barred approach to fashion: studs and spikes are omnipresent, latex and leather run rampant (on and off the runway) and no pair of heels are too high. This season however, designers at Montreal Fashion Week ventured into new territory by exploring feminine silhouettes, fluid fabrics and even quilted details. How's that for a departure?

Dinh Bà

This season, Dinh Bà celebrated his 10th anniversary in fashion with an expansive collection of separates ranging from print dresses and wrap jackets to metallic evening wear. Despite the variety of offerings, Dinh Bà proved that his true talents lie in creating pieces that showcase his attention to detail, as seen in the use of ruffles on tunic tops and evening gowns.
